National Anthem

THE STAR SPANGLED BANNER

Oh, say, can you see,
By the dawn's early light
What so proudly we hailed
At the twilight's last gleaming?
Whose broad stripes and bright stars,
Thro' the perilous fight
O'er the ramparts we watched,
Were so gallantly streaming.
And the rockets' red glare,
The bombs bursting in air,
Gave proof through the night
That our flag was still there.
Oh, say, does that star-spangled
Banner yet wave
O'er the land of the free
And the home of the brave?

— Francis Scott Key

Alma Mater

GLORY LA SALLE

Above Explorers valiant,
Here under thine eyes,
Thy blue and gold banners
Unfurl 'neath the skies!

Chorus:
La Salle, La Salle, thy glory,
Thy triumphs we praise!
Thy name in song forever
Shall we proudly raise!

Thy sons and daughters standing
Await thy command,
Thou fortress of faith
In our God and our land!

Chorus:
La Salle, La Salle, thy glory,
Thy triumphs we praise!
Thy name in song forever
Shall we proudly raise!

— Daniel J. Rodden

Honorary Degrees

Thomas Curley

Doctor of Humane Letters

Presented by

Lynne A. Texter, Ph.D.

Chair & Associate Professor, Communication

Thomas Curley is the 12th person to lead The Associated Press (AP) since its founding in 1846. Under his leadership, AP is moving rapidly to capture the growing audience for digital and video news. Curley also has deepened AP's longstanding commitment to the people's right to know and serves as one of the nation's most aggressive advocates for open government.

Curley has established programs to celebrate exceptional journalism. AP became the first western news agency to open a bureau in Pyongang, North Korea, and added staff in Latin America, Asia, and the Mideast, including Iraq, where AP has more than a hundred people. Among the recognitions that AP has received during Curley's tenure are the 2005 and 2007 Pulitzer Prizes for Breaking News Photography.

Curley was named President and C.E.O. of AP in June 2003. He previously was President and Publisher of USA TODAY, the nation's largest-selling daily newspaper. He was the original news staffer on the project that led to the creation of USA Today.

Curley's journalism career began at the age of 15 when he covered high school basketball for his hometown newspaper Easton Express (Pa.). He continued working for newspapers during college, and he joined Gannett's Rochester (N.Y.) Times-Union in 1972 as night city/suburban editor. He became editor of Gannett's Norwich (Conn.) Bulletin in 1982 and publisher of The Courier-News in Bridgewater, N.J., in 1983 before returning to USA TODAY in 1985. In his career, he has reported from Europe, Central America, and Asia.

Curley earned his bachelor's degree in political science from La Salle University in 1970. As a student, he was the editor of The Collegian, La Salle's student newspaper, and was honored upon his graduation as the senior who had contributed most to his class. Curley served on the University's Board of Trustees from 1992 to 2005.

Curley earned a fellowship in public opinion research from Northwestern University in 1976 and a master's degree in business administration from Rochester Institute of Technology in 1977.

Curley is married to Marsha Stanley, a former newspaper reporter and freelance writer. They have two daughters, Laura and Melinda.

DOCTOR OF PSYCHOLOGY IN CLINICAL PSYCHOLOGY

Farah Kristina Andre

B.A., Wesleyan University, 2001, Psychology
M.A., La Salle University, 2004, Clinical Psychology

Farah Andre is carrying out her A.P.A.-accredited predoctoral internship at the Center for Mental Health at the Reading Hospital and Medical Center. She works within multidisciplinary teams to serve low-income individuals with a variety of presenting complaints. Her research interests lie in better understanding and diagnosing mood disorders and implementing effective treatments for individuals with longstanding interpersonal difficulties. Her clinical dissertation, entitled "Bipolar disorder: history and current status," chaired by Brother Joseph Burke, F.S.C., Ph.D., focused on developing a better understanding of bipolar disorder and generating strategies to improve the accuracy with which psychologists make this diagnosis. Farah is looking forward to pursuing a career providing services within the community mental health system.

Kathryn E. Kanzler Appolonio

B.S., Liberty University, 1999, Psychology
M.A., La Salle University, 2004, Clinical Psychology

Kathryn Appolonio is currently completing her A.P.A.-accredited clinical internship in clinical psychology at Wilford Hall Medical Center (WHMC). She was commissioned as a Captain in the U.S. Air Force and is currently serving a military population by providing treatment, assessment, and consultation using behavioral and cognitive-behavioral techniques. Kathryn was also selected as Assistant Chief in her cohort of 11 and has been gaining specialized training in clinical health psychology, primary care interventions, and post-traumatic stress disorder. Her research interests and involvement at WHMC involve women's health, medical populations, and community outreach. Kathryn has presented research at national psychology conferences hosted by the Association for Behavioral and Cognitive Therapies and the Society of Behavioral Medicine. Her clinical dissertation, chaired by Randy Fingerhut, Ph.D., was funded by the 2005 Student Research Grant Award from the Society of Military Psychology (A.P.A. Division 19) and is entitled "Postpartum Depression in a Military Population." Kathryn is looking forward to continuing her career in clinical health psychology as a psychologist and officer in the U.S. Air Force.

Lutissua Delilah Ballard

B.S., St. Joseph's University, 2000, Psychology
M.A., La Salle University, 2003, Clinical Psychology

Lutissua Ballard is currently a First Lieutenant in the U.S. Army Reserves, Branch Signal Corps. She has completed her A.P.A.-accredited clinical internship at Mercy First Residential Treatment Facility in child and adolescent clinical psychology. She provided intensive psychological treatment and crisis interventions/assessments to adolescent males with severe and persistent psychiatric disorders who are placed in a long-term residential treatment facility. These disorders include schizophrenia, post-traumatic stress disorder (PTSD), bipolar disorder, and similar conditions. Lutissua's research interests and involvement include working with adolescents with non-affective psychotic disorders, particularly individuals with schizophrenia. Future research interests include working with military soldiers diagnosed with PTSD and issues affecting the African American community. Lutissua's clinical dissertation, chaired by Sharon L. Armstrong, Ph.D., is entitled, "Investigating Semantic Organization in Adolescents with Non-Affective Psychotic Disorders Using a Food Categorization Task: A Pilot Study." Lutissua and her husband, Christopher, are expecting their first child in May 2007.

Jamie R. Canataro

B.A., La Salle University, 1999, Philosophy
B.A., La Salle University, 2001, Psychology
M.A., La Salle University, 2005, Clinical Psychology

Jamie R. Canataro is currently completing her A.P.A.-accredited clinical internship at Ancora Psychiatric Hospital in Ancora, N.J. She provides treatment and assessment among an adult population, specifically those with serious mental illness, and forensic populations. She is gaining specialized training with geriatric populations and individuals labeled as sexually violent predators by the State of New Jersey. Jamie has recently presented at conferences such as the New Jersey Association for the Treatment of Sexual Abusers. Jamie's clinical dissertation, chaired by Lynn H. Collins, Ph.D., is entitled "Contingencies of Self-Worth: Activities, Self-Esteem, Quality of Life, and Life Satisfaction." Jamie is looking forward to continuing a career in forensic psychology.

Melissa L. Decker

B.A., Kings College, 2002, Psychology
B.S., Kings College, 2002, Gerontology
M.A., La Salle University, 2004, Clinical Psychology

Melissa L. Decker is currently completing her A.P.A.-accredited clinical internship at the VA Maryland Healthcare System (VAMHCS) in Baltimore, Md. Melissa has completed rotations in trauma recovery, substance abuse, and health psychology. She provides assessment and treatment to veterans with post-traumatic stress disorder, substance abuse, and a variety of medical diagnoses, including cancer and cardiovascular disease. She provides psychotherapeutic interventions from a range of empirical orientations, including cognitive behavioral treatments and Acceptance and Commitment Therapy. She is gaining specialized training in exposure-based interventions for traumatic stress in combat veterans. Melissa's research interests at the Maryland VA include the assessment of health behaviors in female veterans with post-traumatic stress disorder and smoking cessation in returning veterans from Iraq and Afghanistan. Melissa's clinical dissertation, chaired by Cynthia L. Turk, Ph.D., is entitled "Generalized Anxiety Disorder and Emotion Dysregulation: Evaluation of Emotional Experiences and Emotion Regulation Strategies." Several phases of this research were presented at the 2005 and 2006 annual conferences for the Association of Behavioral and Cognitive Therapies in Washington, D.C., and Chicago, Ill. Melissa has accepted a postdoctoral position at the VA Maryland Healthcare System under Sonja Batten, Ph.D. Her clinical duties will consist of psychological assessment and treatment of veterans with post-traumatic stress disorder on the Trauma Recovery Program, as well as implementing a research intervention for weight management in overweight veterans.

Lisa Renee Falconero

B.A., Johns Hopkins University, 2001, Psychology
M.A., La Salle University, 2004, Clinical Psychology

Lisa Falconero is currently completing her A.P.A.-accredited clinical internship at University of Maryland School of Medicine/VA Maryland Healthcare System, Serious Mental Illness track. Her interest in working with adults with serious mental illness is evidenced by her current responsibilities. She provides assessment, therapy, and case management for adults with serious mental illness in a community outpatient treatment center. Lisa's research interests go hand-in-hand with her clinical interests. She participates in research through the Mental Illness Research, Education, and Clinical Center. Lisa's clinical dissertation, chaired by Sharon L. Armstrong, Ph.D., is entitled "Cognitive Impairments in Patients with First Episode Psychosis." Lisa looks forward to a career dedicated to working with people with serious mental illness.

Danielle T. Farabaugh

B.A., Millersville University, 2002, Psychology
M.A., La Salle University, 2004, Clinical Psychology

Danielle T. Farabaugh is currently completing her A.P.A.-accredited clinical internship at the Coatesville Veterans Affairs Medical Center. She provides crisis intervention and individual and group psychotherapy and administers psychological assessment batteries among a diverse veteran population using cognitive behavioral interventions and contemporary evaluative techniques. She is receiving specialized training in neuropsychological assessment, the treatment of severe mental illness and combat-related post-traumatic stress disorder, and the use of EMDR. Danielle's clinical and research interests include the cognitive-processing mechanisms of anxiety and trauma. Her clinical dissertation, chaired by Cynthia L. Turk, Ph.D., is entitled "The Nature of Post-Event Processing in Social Anxiety: An Exploration of Content."

Colleen Mary Gunteski

B.S., St. Joseph's University, 2002, Psychology
M.A., La Salle University, 2004, Clinical Psychology

Colleen is currently completing her A.P.A.-accredited clinical internship at Friends Hospital in Philadelphia, Pa. She is conducting individual and group therapy and psychological assessment with a diverse population of inpatient and outpatient clients. She is gaining a breadth of experience working with populations at all development stages and with varying levels of mental illness. Her clinical interests include work with children, families, and trauma survivors as well as incorporation of positive psychology in practice. Her dissertation, entitled "Strength Based Assessment in Community Mental Health: A Psychometric Evaluation of the BERS-2," was chaired by Kelly McClure, Ph.D., and examined a strength-based assessment measure to gather data about the efficacy of utilizing strength-based approaches with children and families. Colleen has presented at national psychology conferences and hopes to continue presenting child-focused research in the future.

Catherine Dorothy Hillman

B.A., Villanova University, 1989, Psychology
M.S., Villanova University, 1993, Counseling and Human Relations

Catherine D. Hillman is currently employed at Central Montgomery Mental Health Center in Norristown, Pa., where she provides individual and group psychological treatment implementing Cognitive Behavior Therapy for an adult population in the Intensive Outpatient Program. Catherine also performs clinical assessments for the Outpatient and Student Assessment Program and provides clinical supervision for student interns. Catherine completed her clinical internship at the Fifth Avenue Center for Counseling and Psychotherapy in New York City. She has also presented at the national conference for the Association for Behavioral and Cognitive Therapies in Washington, D.C., in 2005. Catherine's clinical dissertation, chaired by Frank L. Gardner, Ph.D., ABPP, is entitled "Predictors of Early Termination from Psychological Treatment in a Community Mental Health Setting."

Amy Lynn Frances Humenik

M.A., La Salle University, 2004, Clinical Psychology

Amy Lynn Frances Humenik is currently completing her A.P.A.-accredited clinical internship at the May Institute in child clinical psychology. She provides assessment, consultation, and therapeutic intervention among a pediatric population using cognitive behavioral treatments. Specifically, she is gaining specialized training in autism, childhood mental illness, Functional Analysis, Applied Behavioral Analysis, and school consultation/liaison, in addition to behavioral pediatrics and child clinical experiences. Amy Lynn's research interests and involvement at the May Institute include working with children and completing functional analyses with children who have autism along with high-risk self-injurious behavior. Amy Lynn's clinical dissertation, chaired by Randy Fingerhut, Ph.D., is entitled "The Relationship between Postpartum Depression and Child Harming Thoughts."

Michele Marie Koschin, Psy.D.

B.A., The College of New Jersey, 1999, Psychology
M.A., La Salle University, 2003, Clinical Psychology
Psy.D., La Salle University, 2006, Clinical Psychology

Michele M. Koschin completed her A.P.A.-accredited predoctoral internship at Pilgrim Psychiatric Center in New York, working with seriously mentally ill adults providing psychological assessment as well as individual and group psychological intervention. Her clinical dissertation, chaired by Kevin C. Riley, Ph.D., was titled "The Role of Psychological Acceptance and Coping Style in the Development of Job Burnout." Dr. Koschin is currently completing her postdoctoral hours working for the University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey as a mental health clinician providing psychological assessment and individual and crisis intervention within a maximum-security prison in New Jersey. She also works providing in-home assessment and intervention to children and families experiencing depression, anxiety, and behavioral disorders.

Jennifer Michele Peltzer, R.N., Psy.D

B.S.N., DeSales University, 1997, Nursing
M.S., Millersville University, 1999, Clinical Psychology
Psy.D., La Salle University, 2006, Clinical Psychology

Jennifer M. Peltzer recently completed an A.P.A.-accredited health psychology clinical internship at Henry Ford Hospital in Detroit, Mich. Currently, she is completing her postdoctoral fellowship at Henry Ford Hospital as its first-ever psycho-oncology fellow. During her time with Henry Ford, she has worked with a diverse medical population in both inpatient and outpatient settings, completing such tasks as organ and bone marrow transplant psychological evaluations, group therapy for chronic pain patients, psychological assessments for chronic pelvic pain patients, bedside hospital assessments with the Consult-Liaison Team, and individual psychotherapy. Jennifer's research involvement this year with Henry Ford has entailed designing a study and constructing measures to investigate the efficacy of a multidisciplinary team in a chronic pelvic pain population. In addition, she is participating in writing a grant to fund a new cancer survivor program to be launched through the Josephine Ford Cancer Center in the coming year. Emergency room attending physicians invited her to become a core committee member for the Community Resources for Emergency Department Overuse pilot program, and she is actively assisting with patient management, program design, and ongoing community networking. She has also been invited by the Josephine Ford Cancer Center to assist in launching the standardization of use of the Distress Monitoring tool for all inpatients and outpatients receiving oncology care. Jennifer's clinical dissertation, chaired by Kevin Riley, Ph.D., is entitled "Interpersonal Relationship Orientation as a Moderator of Burnout Across Three Types of Nursing." Jennifer has been offered and accepted a second year as the psycho-oncology postdoctoral fellow with Henry Ford, and she plans to continue her career as a health psychologist working in a major medical center.

Amanda Wagner Santanello

B.S., Denison University, 2000, Psychology
M.A., La Salle University, 2004, Clinical Psychology

Amanda Wagner Santanello currently is completing her A.P.A.-accredited predoctoral internship at the Kennedy Krieger Institute and the Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine in the Applied Behavior Analysis track. Amanda completed a six-month rotation in the Neurobehavioral Unit Outpatient Clinic and is participating in a rotation in the Pediatric Developmental Disorders Clinic. She provides both clinic-based and community-based assessment and treatment services for children and adolescents with developmental disabilities and severe behavior problems. Amanda is gaining specialized training in using applied behavior analysis methods to assess and treat behavior problems such as self-injury, aggression, property destruction, and pica. Amanda's research interests include investigating variables that influence parental compliance with treatment recommendations for their children. Amanda has presented at the 39th and 40th Annual Conventions of the Association for Behavioral and Cognitive Therapies and will be presenting at the upcoming 33rd Annual Convention of the Association for Behavior Analysis. Amanda's clinical dissertation, chaired by Frank Gardner, Ph.D., ABPP, is entitled "Is Experiential Avoidance a Mediator in the Relationship Between Maladaptive Perfectionism and Worry?" A manuscript of Amanda's dissertation will appear in an upcoming issue of Cognitive Therapy and Research. Following her predoctoral internship, Amanda will be completing a postdoctoral fellowship in the Pediatric Developmental Disorders Clinic at the Kennedy Krieger Institute and the Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine.

Notes on Academic Dress

The history of academic dress begins in the early days of the oldest universities. A statute of 1321 required all "Doctors, Licentiates, and Bachelors" of the University of Coimbra to wear gowns. In England during the second half of the 14th century, the statutes of certain colleges forbade "excess in apparel" and prescribed the wearing of a long gown. It is still a question whether academic dress finds its sources chiefly in ecclesiastical or in civilian dress. Gowns may have been considered necessary for warmth in the unheated buildings used by medieval scholars. Hoods may have served to cover the tonsured head until superseded for that purpose by the skullcap. The cap was later displaced by a headdress similar to ones now recognized as "academic." European institutions continue to show great diversity in their specifications of academic dress. However, when American colleges and universities adopted a system of academic apparel a half-century ago, a code was devised for all to follow.

Gowns—The gown for the bachelor's degree has pointed sleeves and is worn closed. The gown for the master's degree has an oblong sleeve, open at the wrist, with the sleeve base hanging down in the traditional manner. The rear part of the sleeve's oblong shape is square cut and the front part has an arc cut away. It may be worn open or closed. The gown for the doctor's degree has bell-shaped sleeves and may be worn open or closed. Bachelor's and master's gowns have no trimmings, but the doctor's may be faced on the front with black or colored velvet and with three bars of the same across the sleeves. If color is used, it is the color distinctive of the subject to which the degree pertains, and it matches the edging or binding of the hood.

Hoods—Hoods are lined with the official color or colors of the college or university conferring the degree. The binding or edging of the hood is the color indicative of the subject to which the degree pertains, except that the doctor's cap may have its tassel of gold thread.

Caps—Mortarboards are generally worn as part of the academic costume. The long tassel fastened to the middle point of the cap's top is either black or the color appropriate to the subject. It is customary for degree candidates to wear the tassels on the right front side before degrees are conferred and to shift them to the left when the degrees are awarded. This custom is in some respects a substitute for individual hooding.

For all academic purposes, including trimmings of doctors' gowns, edgings of hoods, and tassels of caps, the colors associated with the different subjects are as follows:

Agriculture – Maize
Arts, Letters, Humanities – White
Commerce, Accountancy,
Business – Drab
Dentistry – Lilac
Economics – Copper
Education – Light Blue
Engineering – Orange
Fine Arts – Brown
Forestry – Russet
Journalism – Crimson
Law – Purple
Library Science – Lemon
Medicine – Green
Music – Pink
Nursing – Apricot
Oratory (Speech) – Silver Gray
Pharmacy – Olive Green
Philosophy – Dark Blue
Physical Education – Sage Green
Public Administration – Peacock Blue
Public Health – Salmon Pink
Science – Golden Yellow
Social Work – Citron
Theology – Scarlet
Veterinary Science – Gray
